

Speakers Program

Supporting women at all stages of their speaking journeys with trainings and visibility for thought leadership and career advancement.

What is the Speakers Program?

To excel and ascend in their career, women need an edge. From speaker trainings by experts to speaking placements including Women in Revenue's podcast Resilient Revenue, we enable our members to power their personal brands and visibility. The mission of this core program is to inspire, train, and place women speakers across all Go-To-Market roles and functions.

Let's see more women in our LinkedIn feeds, our screens, and on stages.

Member Benefits

- Speaker training and education from small groups to master classes to workshops (minimum, one per quarter)
- Access to a private Slack channel comprised of fellow women Speakers and industry thought leaders

Why is WIR's Speakers Program unique?

This program supports women at every stage of their career and speaking level.

We don't just place someone somewhere to speak. We train, educate and support women to be fully equipped to own the stage.

We aren't dependent on other people's events.

As women we have had to make the difficult journey up the ladder, we know the value of building your own platform. We've done that along with sponsors, allies and supporters. There will always be a place for our speakers to be heard.

We invest in your speaking skills.

Because speaking is not just about being seen and heard at an event, but is an essential skill for leadership, we invest in giving you training, feedback and support to always put your best foot forward with confidence.

Being part of Women in Revenue and the Speakers Program, has truly helped me not only connect with likeminded, amazing women, but it has opened up additional opportunities for me to speak. Building my own brand and speaking at events is something I love doing and the support of WIR, it makes it possible! I not only have had the opportunity to speak at industry-leading events, but I also get to share the stage with amazing women who are rocking it out in their career and passions. It truly doesn't get better than that!”
